Dear Premier Li Keqiang,

I am writing out of concern of 2010 Nobel Peace Prize recipient Liu Xiaobo who on December 25, 2009 was charged with "inciting subversion of state power" and given an 11 year prison sentence for co-authoring a proposal for political and legal reform in China.

I urge you to release Liu Xiaobo immediately and unconditionally and ensure that he is not tortured or otherwise ill-treated while he remains in custody. Freedom of expression must be protected by the state in China, in line with Chinese constitutional guarantees and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which China has signed.

I thank you for your attention to these concerns.

Sincerely,
Cristian Montellano
